CLIENT TESTIMONIALS

“Ranya Nehmeh delivered the keynote at our Workshop for Remunerations, Allowances and Pensions at CERN, and her speech truly resonated with our audience. Drawing on her extensive experience in Human Resources and her deep knowledge of HR practices within international organisations, Ranya crafted a keynote that spoke directly to the professional realities of our participants. Working closely with our agenda steering committee, she tailored her message to challenge conventional thinking and inspire new perspectives. Her compelling and thought-provoking address sparked lively discussions that continued well beyond the session. Many attendees cited Ranya’s keynote as the highlight of our two-day event”

International Financial Institutions Workshop Steering Committee, OECD/ISRP

“Ranya delivered an inspiring and powerful keynote that truly captivated the audience. Her authentic storytelling and energy made a lasting impression and sparked great conversations long after the event.”

Lisa Jeglitsch, Conference Producer, HR Inside Summit

“Ranya was an outstanding guest on my show. She came prepared, answered questions thoughtfully, and demonstrated a clear understanding of topics my audience cares about. She was professional and respectful of my time - punctual to all meetings and ready to record. What stood out most though, was her depth of knowledge. She brought well-informed, practical insights that my audience will find valuable. I would recommend her to other podcast hosts looking for substantive guests.”

Andrea Adams, The HR Hub Podcast

CLIENT TESTIMONIALS

“Ranya joined me for an episode of our HR Disrupted podcast and was a great guest. Her new book ‘In praise of the office’ is highly topical and creates a fascinating conversation around something that many business leaders and HR professionals are worrying about. Ranya is insightful, well-prepared and great company.”

Lucy Adams, CEO at Disruptive HR

“Dr. Nehmeh’s session at the OPEC Fund helped us look at hybrid work with fresh eyes. Her research-based perspective was both timely and inspiring, especially as we continue navigating how to make flexibility work in a way that supports both individual needs and organizational goals. She offered a thoughtful reminder that hybrid models succeed not by default, but through intentional choices that help people stay connected, engaged, and able to do their best work.”

HR Management, OPEC Fund for International Development

“Ranya delivered a highly engaging and insightful session on rethinking remote and hybrid work models. She brought a compelling and well-balanced perspective on the future of the workplace, combining strategic insight with practical recommendations. Participants left with concrete ideas to strengthen collaboration, performance, and culture, and the session sparked meaningful and thought-provoking discussion within the HR community.”

Coordinators of the Vienna-Based International Organizations (VBIO)
HR Network

CLIENT TESTIMONIALS

“UpNext@Work features senior HR executives who generously share their thought leadership with our listeners. Ranya’s episode remains one of our most popular, especially given her research and expertise in the hidden benefits of the in-office work experience. She provides a helpful framework that enables HR and managers to have productive return-to-office conversations with employees.”

Jeanne Achille, CEO, The Devon Group, Co-host UpNext@Work POdcast

“Ranya is a great speaker, thoughtful, concise, and full of insight. She brought a fresh and timely perspective that made the conversation engaging and meaningful for our audience.”

Ross Dickie and Claire Gibson, The Mindtools podcast

“Ranya delivered a thoughtful, engaging, and research-based presentation on hybrid work that was both insightful and highly practical. She translated evidence and real-world experience into clear, actionable ideas, sharing them in an engaging and accessible manner. Many colleagues commented that the session was extremely helpful and left them with concrete ideas on how to move forward in their own contexts. Her ability to combine rigor, practicality, and an engaging delivery made the session particularly impactful.”
